

RECOMMENDED LEADERSHIP BOOKS

Leadership and leader development books continue to be popular subject matter. To help you identify those worthy of your time, the following list represents title and authors most often recommended by an assortment of national Human Resource professionals. In bold are those titles often recommended by VRH when coaching executives. Which have found a place on your bookshelf? Let us know of others you recommend. Click on a title to go directly to Amazon.com for more information.

“Good to Great” by Jim Collins

“What Got You Here Won’t Get You There” by Marshall Goldsmith

“The 21 Irrefutable Laws of Leadership” by John Maxwell

“Principle Centered Leadership” by Stephen Covey

“What Leaders Really Do” by John P. Kotter

“Monday Morning Leadership” by David Cottrell

“The Art of Possibility” by Rosamond and Benjamin Zander

“The Empowered Manager” by Peter Block

“The Leadership Engine” by Noel Tichy

“First Break all the Rules” by Marcus Buckingham and Curt Coffman

“Start with Why” by Simon Sinek

“The Leadership Machine” by Michael M. Lombardo and Robert W. Eichinger

“Developing the Leader Within” by John Maxwell

“Leadership Secrets of Attila the Hun” by Wess Roberts

“Leadership Jazz” by Max DePree

“The Disney Way” by Bill Capodagli and Lynn Jackson

“Seven Habits of Highly Effective People” by Stephen R. Covey

“The 8th Habit” by Stephen Covey

“In Search of Excellence” by Thomas J. Peters and Robert H. Waterman

“The Fifth Discipline” by Peter M. Senge